

Most people like to travel and why should being on dialysis stop you?! Just because you're on dialysis needn't mean that you can't enjoy a holiday away or take on a job that involves overseas travel

There's nothing like gaining confidence from the thousands of dialysis users who manage to travel successfully all around the world everyday. There are loads of helpful guidance here - just go to the section you are interested in. Alternatively visit the our community forum to speak with other dialysis users.

Most people are encouraged to get away, whether you're on haemo, peritoneal or home dialysis. It's true you need to plan more carefully and you might not always get a last minute bargain as easily. But with our help we wil soon have you traveling off on your adventures.
